

Avalanche alert in Kashmir

February 07, 2017

Chandigarh based Snow and Avalanche Study Establishment (SASE) said in a statement that a “medium danger” warning is in place for avalanche-prone slopes above 2,500 metres in Kupwara, Ganderbal and Kargil districts of Jammu and Kashmir. A medium danger warning was issued on Monday for some avalanche-prone slopes of Jammu and Kashmir above 2,500 metres. It said the warning is valid for the next 24 hours, starting at 5 pm on Monday, and advised people not venture into avalanche-prone areas. The SASE said a fresh spell of snow was witnessed until this morning in Gulmarg (10 cm) and Drass (38 cm) in J&K.
